

Lesson details

Year Group: 8

Subject: Drama

Where I will find my work: In this document

Hyperlinks: N/A

Do Now Questions

Using the stimulus below, answer these questions!

1. Write down three things you can see.
2. Write down two emotions inspired by this.
3. Write down a story idea inspired by the below stimulus.

The name
Pandora means
"The one with all the gifts"

Engage

LO: To create a structured plot of a performance inspired by a stimulus.

Keyword: Stimulus

Definition: A starting point to the project (inspiration). Can be words, song, image, quote.

Learn

A story's structure usually follows a beginning, middle and end. This follows a character or group of characters that have an engaging event with a resolution needing to be required at the end.

Writing a story should follow a form of arc like this one:

Build

Your task today will be to create a story plot inspired by this stimulus. You can develop from previous ideas in Devising lessons or create an original story.

Use the following sentence starters for each section of your story in your homework book and build them into a complete part of the story.

Beginning – Four people awoke, trapped in a dark room. They remember falling but can't remember anything else...

Incident – A blue firefly emerges, dancing around...

Middle – They find a golden encrusted doorway, with a distant dripping noise in the distance.

Climax – They can finally see daylight up in the sky, shut out by what looks like a latch on a box.

End – Scrambling up...

Resolution – I still remember that day, like...

Apply

With your story overview, you may have decided upon some characters. Characters are normally developed for the audience in the beginning of the play or as they appear.

Create a monologue (speech from one person), for every main character in your story. Make sure the monologue achieves a better understanding of the character.

Review

1. In a sentence explain what your story is about.
2. Describe the different characters in the story.
3. When reading back your story, what do you feel from this? Write this down.

Prepare to share your work to your tutor for HW checks.